

A THOUGHT.

To-day I seem to understand
That pain and struggle, grief and care,
Are chisels in an unseen Hand
That round us into statues fair.

– A. P. Miller.
